YANTIAN (SHENZHEN, CHINA) PORT CONGESTION – Update 4

Dear Valued Customer,

ONE would like to provide an update about the evolving container terminal congestion and disruption in and around the port of Shenzhen.

Terminal Congestion

The container logistics situation continues to deteriorate around all the ports in the area.

The COVID-19 related inspection and preventive measures have been tightening by local authorities in not only Shenzhen area (where Yantian, Shekou, Chiwan ports locate), but also Guangzhou area (where Nansha port locates) recently.

YICT^() has been kept working at low productivity due to the continued COVID related work restrictions along with high yard density; other terminals including SCT^() and CCT^(*) are also operating at surged traffic with yard density well over 90%.

Gate-in Operation

Road congestion in and around the port areas are observed with extended waiting time for both empty and laden container movements around the gates. Terminals have issued notices about adjustments to their export laden gate-in operation as follows:

Notice	Terminal ^(*)	Measure	Period	Remark
2021.6.05	YICT	Gate-in open for vessel within ETA -3 days only. Advance reservation is required before gate-in.	from: 2021.6.07 00:00 until further notice	tightened measure continues
2021.6.03	SCT / CCT	Gate-in open for vessel within ETA -3 days only	from: 2021.6.06 00:00 to: 2021.6.13 23:59	tightening measure
2021.6.04	NSA-GOCT	Gate-in open for vessel within ETA -7 days only	from: 2021.6.07 00:00 until further notice	tightening measure

With the above adverse situation, vessel berthing delays or rotation adjustments are anticipated to continue in the coming weeks.

We will update upon availability of further information. If you require information on specific shipments or sailings, please contact your local ONE customer services team or account manager.

Vessel Situation

Due to the disruption in Shenzhen, we regret to inform you that several vessels will be omitting their usual calls at the terminals of Yantian or Shekou to minimize schedule disruption. Please refer to the contingency plan as outlined below for details of specific vessel-voyages.
